TO HAVE ANOTHER FAIR

CHICAGO IS NOW TALKING ABOUT AN ATTRACTION FOR 1894.

The Virginia Building at the Columbian Exposition Will be Closed After the Last of October.

Another conference of members of the Virginia Board of World's Fair Manapers was held yesterday in the office the President, Colonel A. S. Buford. There were also present Messrs Glennan, Figgatt, Gaines, Brenaman, Brockenbrough, Hurt and Secretary Morton.

A letter from the business commissioner, pr. Apperson, at the World's Fair, was read, in which he stated that there was Beelhood of the Fair being continued a November 15th, but he advised the rd as a matter of expediency and sconto close the Virginia exhibit on the of October, as first intended Board decided to do, and get to their respective owners as quick-presenter as possible. On motion of Mr. Noble, Chairman Taylor will be requested to call a meeting of the full Committee on Grounds and Buildings for next Monday at 6 P. M. It is expected that the committee will recommend to the City Council the pur-chase of a sultable site, and the latter body will probably agree to it without any opposition if the payment for the te can be made in city bonds.

he two joint committees had also instructions to take some steps towards securing temporary quarters for the Howitzers, but it was deemed best not to do anything in that direction for the present. If the two branches of the Council can be induced at their next meeting to pass a measure necessary for the so-curing of a new armory, the officers of the Howitzers think that they will be able to get along without temporary quar-ters. Colonel Jones has kindly offered the regimental armory to Captain Hulcheson for the squad drills of the Howitzers, and it would therefore not be necessary to have another building.

It is the intention of the committee to recommend to the City Council that the sum of $6,000, appropriated for the construction of a drill shed, be used. If the price for a site can be paid in city bonds, it will only require a comparatively small additional appropriation in eash for the completion of the armory, inasmuch as a sufficient number of bricks can be obtained from the old armory and the buildings now in existence on the several sites.

THE REVENUES SUFFICIENT. No Increase of Taxation Necessary to Cover the Expenses of the State.

The State authorities have been greatly concerned over a statement recently published in the Baltimore Sun, which, by an error committed in the transmission of the telegram from here to Baltimore, conveyed just the opposite idea from what was really intended.

In the statement in question the Rich-mond correspondent of The Sun appear-ed to say that the State of Virginia had not sufficient revenues to support government and pay the intesest on the public debt. This was a grave mistake, although the correspondent is no to blame for it, because the error oc-curred after the article had been writ-ten. The mistake which consisted in the representation that the revenues of the State were not sufficient to meet all obligations, was so much more de plorable, in as much as the article in question has been widely republished in this State, and has been used by the Populists in their organ and on the stump, as an argument, that the present State officials should be changed.

Since then the Richmond correspondent of the Baltimore Sun has distinctly stated that the article as published constated that the article as published conveyed just the opposite idea from what it was intended for, and that he was fully aware of the fact that the revenues of the State are amply sufficient to defray all necessary expenses, including the interest on the public debt, without necessitating an increase of the taxes. State Treasurer Harman, assured yesterday, that the present revenues of the State woul be even sufficient to pay three per cent, interest on the century bonds, although the same, under the law, have to run eight more years at the rate of interest of two per

Several month ago Colonel Morton Marye, the Auditor of Public Accounts prepared a statement showing the in-crease in the public revenues of the State for the year 1892 over those of 1883, and the increased appropriations which con-sequently the Commonwealth has been enabled to make. This statement also contained the inference that the revenues of 1803 would largely exceed those of

To Open More Streets.

The Committee on Streets held a called meeting in the City Engineer's office meeting in the City Engineer's once last evening. There were present Sub-Chairman Turpin, and Messrs. Allen, Bahen, Carter, R. T. Davis, Stratton, and Royal White. The object of the meeting was to agree on the opening and grading of some additional streets in Lee district, so as to use up the balance of the $20,000 appropriated for that purpose.

It was decided to issue allegations for the opening and grading of the following streets: Cedur street, from Franklin street to Grove road, and from Broad from Elm street to the Boulevard; Grace street from Lombardy to Addison street and from Lombardy street to the Boule vard. The contract for the construction of a sewer on First street, from the alley between Marshall and Broad streets, to the alley between Broad and Grace streets, and from there up that alley about half a square, was awarded C. Maynard, the lowest responsible bidder.

POLITICAL. MATTERS

ROUSING MEETING OF THE UNION DEMOCRATIC CLUB LAST NIGHT.

Speeches by Mr. C. V. Meredith, Colonel Mende Haskins, Senator Lovenstein. and Others-Political News.

The Unio.: Democratic Club held a rousing meeting last night in Powell's Hail. Chairman William H. Cullingworth presided, and J. D. Redwood acted as secretary. A series of resolutions in respect to the memory of the late Frank T. Hancock, formerly a member of the club, were adopted.

A committee was appointed to confer with the Thurman and Old Dominion clubs to arrange for a blg Democratic rally at Old Market Hall some time before the election next month. Messrs. Smith, Sullivan, Hughes and Cullingworth composed the committee.

After transacting some unimportant business, Mr. C. V. Meredith was presented, by the chairman, to the club, and addressed the body at some length. Meredith thanked the chairman briefly for his cordial invitation to be present. It was not the people composing the opposing party that the Democrats needed to fear, but the dangerous doctrines they were advocating, said the speaker. These doctrines had brought on the dinancial trouble the people were suffering with, and had been influential in crippling labor and shutting down manufac tories. The Democrats should be on their guard early in the campaign against the Populists, who were stirring up jealousy and strife. Their policy was little less than downright anarchy, the whole object of the party being to secure converts simply through their abusive attitude towards the Democrats.

Mr. Meredith then reviewed briefly the false views of the Populists, and spoke strongly against the manner in which that class of individuals held to an ever changeable platform. The Democrati party promised no special privileges, but simply assured the people of good, honest government to all. When a party pro-posed to deal out favors through some political policy, it might be depended upon that the rich man would get the greater part of the favors.

That Wild Cat Plank.

Mr. Meredith then took up the Populist platform and proceeded to expose its falacies. These people wanted the govern-ment to lend money on land securities. Where would the poor man in the city be with such a plan as this? ased the such a plan as this? ased the couldn't borrow any money. The doctrine wouldn't hold good. The Populists couldn't make any charges against the Democrats' management of public schools. This would be absurd. No one could fail to see the great improvement made in the ducational system during the Demo-ratic administration.

Mr. Meredith then presented his hearers with a clear view of the Populistic theories, and showed by a series of logical arguments how reckless it would be to put the financial system of the country into the hands of men who would bankrupt the government in a short time. He paid a high tribute to the character and fearlessness of President Cleveland, who had shown no partiality, and reviewed the work of the Democratic party, showing the great advantage to the people of improving the pension system in the hands of a southern man, and emphasizhands of a southern man, and emphasiz-ing the importance of Virginia standing up for Democracy since some of the western States were sending money to this State to carry it for the Populists. He exposed the gross errors in the silver plank of that party, and touched a sympathetic chord in his hearers in his arguments against the free and unlimited colnage of that metal.

Col. Haskins' Views.

Mr. Meredith closed with an appeal to Mr. Meredifi closed with an appeal to the members of the club to stand by the Democratic banner, and Colonel Meade Haskins then addressed the body. Colo-nel Haskins said he did not think ques-tions in the hands of the national party ought to be dragged into the State cam ought to be dragged into the State cam-paign. The Republican party was respon-sible for the financial depression of the country. It was impossible in a few months for the Democratic party to Philadelphia Press says: remedy the evils which had accumulate remedy the evils which had accumulated under Republican administration for thir-ty years. The Democratic party should not be held responsible for these evils. Even in their short period of power they had done no little towards setting matters

Colonel Haskins did not believe in kicking about the tardiness of matters in the Senate. The people should have a little patience, and give their representatives time to give the questions arising before them due and mature consideration before acting. He applauded President Cleveland's first administration, and said that every Democrat should be proud of the message in reference to the tariff which Grover Cleveland sent to Congress in 1887. people ought to grumble against Mr. Cleveland. He himself had a little reason to kick. He had asked Mr. Cleveland for an office; but the President had turned him down, and given the position to an-other man. But in the name of honest manhood he expected to stick by the Dem-ocratic party, and do all in his power for it and its principles. The speaker paid his respects to the Populists, and scored some strong points against that organization. He had noticed that a very large number of the most prominent Populis were disgruntled ex-officials. Many of them had been drawing a regular salary from the Democratic party, and as soon as the office was taken away they had turned against the Democrats. The An-derson-McCormick law was a just one, but derson-McCornick law was a just one, out the Populists didn't like it because it didn't turn out enough votes for them. Their National platform favored the pensioning of ex-Union soldiers, but their State platform said not a word about granting pensions to the disabled ex-Confederate soldiers and their widows.

Colonel Haskins attacked the Populis theories singly, and gave a clear and forcible argument against them, inter-spersing his points with some vivid and ogether amusing illustrations. He sed with an appeal not to bring in fllustrations. He to come into the hands of the city government, but to put aside persedifferences, and go to the polis roll up a handsome majority for Charles Legislative Candidates.

Colonel Haskins closed amid loud applause, and was followed by Senator Wil-liam Lovenstein, who made a brief but interesting speech, in which he impress-ed upon his hearers the importance of putting forth their utmost efforts that he Democratic ticket might go into office with a gratifying majority. He compli mented the Union Democratic Club for their past efforts, and believed they would do their duty in future, and em-

Mr. John S. Harwood was then called upon to address the club, which he di-brigfly, expressing his heartfelt gratitude or his nomination in September, and pron ising his earnest attention and efforts to the interest of his constituents when he went to the House of Delegates. The club then heard one of the strong est addresses it has ever heard from the rising young orator, Mr. C. A. Boyce. A partial canvass of this precinct shows 172 Democrats to about ten Populists.

Among the contributors are two of the candidates, Mr. Rev. T. Crump and Colonel John B. Cary. Mr. Patteson has a cheerful faith in the support of the Democrats of Richmond, and believes that a large part, at least, of the guarantee fund will be contributed by the true Democrats of the city.

CLARKE AT THE ACADEMY,

"Little Butterfly" Received With Little Approval by a Fairly Large Audience.

Mr. Wilfred Clarke and his company of comedians presenting "Little Butterfly" at the Academy last evening failed to achieve an unqualified success before the fairly large audience present. On the contrary, many were of the opinion that the play was inane and poorly played, grew wearied before the final drop of the curtain was made. Others, more generous in their opinions, and with more admiration for the scion of the noble house of Booth, thought the play gave a rather passable representation of the days long

The play is an adaptation of some old English comedy that was probably pre-sented by John Sleeper Clarke when he was young. It has the mustiness of an old volume about it, and carries one back to the time when individuals past the prime of life, made consummate fools of themselves, and expected people to delude themselves with the idea that what they did was irresistibly amusing. It has the smack about it of some of the antiquated comedies one finds on the top shelf of a library, where the spiders and other entomological specimens have held high carnival for years. It has a story where there are enough genealogical complica-tions to give dismay to a trio of intelli-gent, hard-working, energetic Quaker City

The title role of Little Butterfly is assumed by Mr. Clarke, who is really the entire comedy, for the other members of the cast circle around him and shine with only reflected light. He is amusing, al though a bit of his comedy in the first act is far too exaggerated to be at all ludicrious. Miss Martha Ford's role gives her but a small opportunity of displaying

HE FELT VERY BADLY.

A Railroad President Clearly Expresses His Feelings.

DO YOU FEEL THE SAME?

There Are a Surprising Number of Men and Women Who are Just in the Same Condition,

"How do I do? Badly, thank you. My head is all stopped up and I have touches of neuralgia in the forehead and base of the brain. The muscles of my limbs ache and every little while I feel chilly. That is how I do. It is not very pleasant, I assure you."

The above remark was made by the president of one of the leading railroads centering in New York city, a gentleman who is known for his good nature and wit throughout the entire land. The gentleman with whom he was talking said:

"You are not alone in this trouble. Half the people I meet tell me the same thing. There is an epidemic of this kind just now, so the doctors tell me. I have had a touch of it myself, but I do not need the help af a physician. When I feel chilly or out of sorts; when my head and bones ache, I know just what the trouble is. I know that uric acid in my blood is the cause of it all and I have a way of bringing myself around in no time without the aid of a doctor." "What is it?" inquired the railroad

It is the most standard remedy of the present day and one which has more en-dorsements of physicians and prominent people than any other. It is Warner's Safe Cure. My wife, who has been out of sorts and run down for over a year, has been restored to perfect health by using it and is really healthier to-day than I am. As a great professor in a New York medical college truly says: 'I am con-vinced that in all ailments where the blood is in an unhealthy condition and the general health impaired, the advan-tage gained from the use of Warner's Safe Cure is remarkable."

There are an innumerable number of scople throughout America to-day, roubled precisely as these gentlemen are, who are really suffering and who do know the cause. There is no need of fur-ther suffering, and there is no occasion for seeing a doctor. The means is right at hand and can certainly be used with the greatest success.

Revenue Arrests.

Deputy Collector R. F. Gassaway yes-terday arrested S. W. Anthony and H. C. Foster, of Jackson, Louisa county, on the charge of defrauding the government out of tax on distilled spirits.

They were brought to this city and turned over to Deputy United States Marshal Thomas E. Ballard. Marshal Thomas E. Ballard.
The amount of stuff found by the officer was about 170 gallons of brandy, some cider, still, &c. It is claimed by the gentlemen that there was no intention to defraud; that their books were not written up, and their failure to forward their report was due to that cause.

A children's entertainment was given yesterday afternoon at the Woman's Christian Association, under the auspices of the Lunch Committee, which proved a complete success.

Last winter some valuable improvements were made to the lunch recommendation.

Last winter some valuable improvements were made to the lunch rooms in the basement of the building, and the ladies inaugurated this system of juvenile entertainments to defray the expense incurred.

Yesterday's event was a cake walk, with a prize to the girl who walked with the greatest degree of evenness and grace. Three contestants reached a proper degree of efficiency, and in a drawing, which was necessarily adopted to decide the matter, little Miss Cary won the prize. These entertainments will be given every Friday, and varied each week.

Yesterday's entertainment was under the management of Mrs. De Saussure and Miss Lawson will arrange for next Friday's programme.
The attendance of little folks on these occasions is quite large and they seem
